

How Long Will I Need Physical Therapy?

Every individual is different and so is the length of their treatment. You will need to attend physical therapy sessions until your therapist and you decide that you have attained your desired function level or that it is determined that further therapy would not be beneficial. It is common for therapy to be monitored by your physician during the process.