

2022 Arctic Physical Therapy Scholarship Winner

Everest Moll is from Provo, Utah and graduated from Carlmont High School. He is attending Brigham Young University and is majoring in Actuarial Science.

Message from Recipient:

"This money is an incredible opportunity for me. I consider it an investment into my future self and career. I will major in Actuarial Science, which focuses on financial statistics, and there are several professional exams I must pass in order to receive my certifications. These exams range from $250 to $1125, so this scholarship money will allow me to continue studying my major in addition to pursuing (and paying for) these exam certifications. I am truly grateful for this substantial help. Also, I heartily support physical therapy practices as I have personally been to several PT's due to many soccer injuries in my life—you all are amazing!"
